Product Change Notification

9th January 2024

PCN: 010147

To whom it may concern,

We would like to inform you of a change to the following products, as our records show that you have purchased some of these products from us at least once in the last 3 years.

Due to increased supply chain complications and environmental regulations MH Connectors is changing the plating material for the part numbers shown on the subsequent pages of this notification from tin to nickel effective immediately. The part numbers will remain the same and the product will meet the exact form, fit and function it has previously except for the plating of the shell.

Please note, MH Connectors holds connector inventory with tin plated shells that can be sold until depleted.

If for any reason you are not the correct person to receive this information please can you pass this correspondence to the relevant individual or department within your company.

Yours sincerely
