

GlobTek Twist-Locking Barrel Connectors

Coaxial barrel connectors are the most common type of connectors used to transmit power and signals in electronic devices. However, vibration and accidental tugs can easily disconnect standard barrels, resulting in critical system downtime or data loss. Globtek's locking barrel connectors prevent these costly failures by securing connections.

Read more on: <https://en.globtek.com/technical-articles/globtek-twist-locking-barrel-connectors>

